is considering at present the wisest choice of a business career. As a permanent calling Life Insurance Salesmanship is one of the best, one of the most desirable and one of the most satisfactory.

In assets and volume of business, Life Insurance ranks as one of the leading businesses of the country and yet the field is comparatively under-developed. When we consider the total amount of life insurance in force in 1921—ordinary, industrial and group—and compare it with the total number of people in Canada and the United States we find an average of only $412 worth of insurance per person. This gives an idea of the large field still to be worked, especially that of business insurance for firms and corporations.

As a source of income, reports of college graduates who have entered business show that Life Insurance Salesmanship heads the list. NOW is the time for you to decide your business career after graduation. Ambition and a determination to work hard are necessary qualifications of a man who succeeds in this business. If you are interested and wish to know more about Life Insurance as a calling, write for the booklet, "What There is in It For Jones".

MACLEAN WINS PRESIDENCY OF COUNCIL AT THE ANNUAL ELECTIONS YESTERDAY IS OFFICIAL REPORT OF UNION POLLS

Ted Newton is President of the Union—Philpott is Vice-President—Jack Wright is the New Secretary—MacLean's Majority Very Large—Competition Very Keen Among Candidates for Secretaryship—Less Than a Hundred Votes Difference Between First and Third Candidates for This Position—Nearly Fourteen Hundred Voters Registered—Slightly Smaller Number than Last Year.

Basil C. MacLean is president of the Students' Council for the session 1924-25. The vote yesterday gave him a large majority over his opponent, Howard O'Hagan. "Ted" Newton is president of the Union House Committee; Philpott is vice-president of the Union and Jack Wright is secretary of that institution.

With the exception of the vote for the secretaryship, which was very close, the winning candidates were returned by large majorities. Ninety-four ballots were destroyed. These latter were incorrectly marked. In all 1,379 men voted, though some voted for one position and not for another.

Basil MacLean secured 72 per cent. of the votes cast for the position of president of the Council. Newton and Philpott each nearly doubled the vote of their opponents. Of the 1,348 votes cast for the secretaryship of the Union, 36.1 per cent went to Jack Wright, the successful contestant. Brock Jamieson, who was second by 55 votes, secured 32.1 per cent, while Murphy, who ran a very good third, secured 31.5.

The election figures are as follows:

President of the Council.
MacLean 1,036
O'Hagan 299

ANNUAL MEETING OF S.C.A. TONIGHT

"Ernie" Clark, of S. C. M., to be Present—Election of Officers

The activities of the McGill Students' Christian Association for the session 1923-24 culminate tonight in the annual meeting when the work of the past year will be gone over and plans discussed and officers elected for next year. This is to be a combined meeting of the S.C.A.'s of the University, the R.V.C. and the M.S.P.E. and reports will be given of the work carried on by all these bodies.

As this to be the most important meeting of the year all possible arrangements have been made to carry the business through quickly and make the meeting valuable both to the Association and to the individual members who attend the meeting.

The general programme will include a short devotional period, minutes of previous meetings, reports of committees, elections, recommendations regarding the secretary, and an address on the Students Christian Movement of Canada, by E. H. Clark, the national secretary.

Four members are to be elected from the University faculty to the advisory board. The president and ten members of the board of directors are to be elected from the following list of nominations:

President
J. W. MacLeod
W. R. Wilson
For the Board of Directors
S. P. Findlay
W. Heaton
R. B. MacLeod

Don Stewart
J. W. MacLeod
D. R. Logan
C. H. Whitmore
J. W. Jardine
C. L. Copland
J. M. Duckworth
E. D. MacLeod
W. M. Prudham.

The address by Mr. Clark will doubtless be most interesting and this will be an opportunity for any who may be interested to hear the objects and ideals of the Students' Christian Movement attained.

All persons who are at all interested in the work of the S.C.A. are cordially invited to come and join in the discussion.

ARTISTIC SETTING FOR ALMA MATER

Decorations in Union Nearing Completion

The long waited for Alma Mater Dance is almost here. "This is the last opportunity the students will have of dancing at the Union this year, and we fully intend that it will be one that he will remember," said a member of the Council. The preparations are being made on a more elaborate and artistic scale than anything previously attempted. The decoration scheme is in the very able hands of Gordie Hughes, Blake Wilson, and their numerous and efficient assistants. Owing to the large number of students desiring to attend both the Ball Room of the Union and the Lounge Room will be used for dancing. Glen Adney's orchestra, gaily attired in filmy Japanese costumes, will play in the Ball Room, and Joe Cloutier's orchestra in the breezy attire of the Hawaiians will officiate in the Lounge Room. Supper will be served by Pierre in two sittings in the Cafeteria and the Manager, Mr. Honneger, has promised that in his share in making the Dance a success he will excel himself. The color scheme of the Ball Room decorations is purple and gold, the purple predominating. The walls, for the main part, are covered with rich purple drapings of crepe paper. This rather sombre shade is relieved by a gold band around the floor and ceiling, and numerous Chinese birds soaring serenely on the dark background. Two familiar figures of the Ball Room decorations, "Tul" and the Owl, have been replaced, and in their place a ten-foot image of Buddha will smile serenely over the dancing couples. At first sight, the moon seems to be missing, but nevertheless, it will be seen shining in a very realistic manner during the two moonlight waltzes, from behind the purple hangings. In place of using the ceiling lights, the lights along the walls will be used, giving a much softer light than formerly. The slide light brackets have been turned upside down, and the glass shades have been removed in favour of small Japanese lanterns. From the ceiling, at opposite ends of the room, two six-foot, beautifully painted Japanese lanterns are suspended. At each side of the orchestra platform two large ornamental stand lamps are placed. The most prominent decorations of the room is a splendidly executed dragon, forty feet in length, hanging from the ceiling in the centre of the room. In the sitting-out room opening off the Ball Room, are a number of dainty

WINNERS AND LOSERS.

The annual election fight is over, and after a keen and interesting campaign, coming to a climax yesterday, the undergraduates have made their choice of successors to the retiring President of the Students' Council, and the three retiring members of the Union House Committee. In three instances the newly chosen officers were elected by large majorities, and can go forward with the work of next year confident that the student body has implicit faith in their ability to accomplish those tasks which will confront them from day to day. The secretaryship of the House was keenly fought for, and was won only by a narrow margin. The winner, however, has a strong backing, and knows exactly in what position he stands. To the successful candidates—three of which, by the way, have won fame in the field of athletics—we extend our heartiest congratulations, and though their tasks may be many and arduous, we are sure that with discreet wisdom and judgment, that they will be able to carry out all their duties successfully, with fairness to the undergraduate body, to their Alma Mater and to themselves.

But we cannot close this brief editorial without saying a word to those who stood for office but were defeated at the polls. It is true that they were unsuccessful in the political race; it is true, in three cases, that they lost by wide margins. Yet without them there would have been no battles, and elections would have descended into the realms of unsatisfactory acclamations. The losers gave of their time and of their energy, and though the thoughtless may not think so, these men have been of great service to Old McGill. We thank them and offer them our best wishes for success in whatever activities they participate in during the year that is to come.

CONDENSED COMMENT.

From a statistical point of view yesterday's elections were satisfactory, for nearly fourteen hundred students exercised their prerogative of voting at the polls. This is about eighty per cent. of the undergraduates, who are eligible to vote, and is a good proportion in comparison with the usual results. If those who did not cast their ballots, that is the remaining twenty per cent., refrained from doing so because they felt that they did not know the candidates and their respective ability sufficiently well, then we are perfectly happy and content. But if there were some who neglected to visit the polls from sheer lack of interest, then our contentment is tinged with disappointment. But taken on the whole, the situation was pleasing, and we feel sure that no derogatory remarks will be registered.

The poster campaign carried on during the recent election was a feature which reached unprecedented proportions. It must be admitted that these add interest to the contests, but there is one dangerous flaw in the system which must not be winked at—that is the danger of making elections expensive affairs. The matter might well be thought over, and if necessary a plan of limited use might be introduced.

The Junior Hockey squad, by reason of its victory over the M. A. A. last night, won the championship of the City League, coming through the season with a brilliant record, on which is recorded only one defeat. The players have brought no small athletic honour to their Alma Mater, and it is to be hoped that they will have the chance of fighting for further laurels, if the games do not interfere to too great an extent with their academic activities.

If rumours we have heard are to be taken as true, there are a few in this university who have been uttering criticisms and insinuations regarding the "Daily" and the election campaign. As far as we can ascertain, we are being accused of political bias (we absolutely refute the charge), but unfortunately our accusers, whoever they may be, have not seen fit to bring their grievances here, but for some unknown reason have laid their burdens at the feet of those who, though prominent about college, are not officially connected with this publication. If there are any who wish to criticise, we would much prefer that this be done to our face, rather than behind our back. The latter method is not eminently satisfactory.

How to Hold a Baby

 Such problems as why they put whipped cream on bouillon, or how to fish the cherries out of lemonade, Professor Blotter of Columbia University has met and conquered with comparative ease; but the venerable scientist admitted yesterday that he was floored at last.

"When it comes to holding a baby," said Dr. Blotter, "I am absolutely at sea."

"Do you hold it by the back of the neck?" he muttered to himself, scratching busily at his blueprints. "Do you lift it under the elbows? Do you tuck it under your arm like a football? or grasp it like a bowling ball? or hold it somehow like the Discobolus?" The Professor looked up wearily.

 "Do you hold it to your shoulder and jar it up and down?" he asked. "Do you hold it in one hand and let it chew a finger of your other? Do you apply talcum powder to prevent its skidding? Do you feed it the washcloth and a piece of soap when it begins crying?" The Professor paced the floor.

"And how," he said, turning upon me suddenly, "how would you ever lower it again?"

It is hard for a man of Professor Blotter's age and eminence to swallow defeat.
 "I'll see you when I finish this sentence," said the convict.

The Editor,

The Editor,

McGill Daily,
 Dear Sir,—May I, through your columns congratulate my opponent, Ted Newton, on his election yesterday, to the Presidency of the McGill Union. I should also like to thank those who supported me and especially those who signed my nomination sheet.

The campaign was conducted on a friendly and open basis and in closing I should like to say that there is no student at McGill I would rather have seen elected for this position than Ted Newton.

Yours very truly,
 R. E. DINGMAN.

The Editor,

McGill Daily,
 Dear Sir,—Through the columns of your paper might I convey my hearty congratulations to Jack Wright, my successful opponent, for the victory he won yesterday.

May I also take this opportunity to thank, very sincerely, all those who either directly or indirectly aided me in this campaign.

Thanking you for your valued space,

The Editor,

McGill Daily,
 May I have the privilege of expressing my very sincere thanks to the student body who supported me in the University elections yesterday's, and all those who so ably assisted me in my campaign.

I wish to express in particular my great appreciation of the sportsmanlike method in which my opponent, Mr. Bob Dingman, has conducted his campaign and feel that his offer to give me every assistance possible is the offer of a generous opponent and a valuable friend.

I wish to repeat that I will do everything in my power to justify the confidence that the undergraduate body has placed in me.

Very sincerely yours,
 THEODORE F. M. NEWTON.

The Editor,

McGill Daily,
 Dear Sir,—Permit me to express, through the columns of the Daily, my thanks to the student body for their support in the election of yesterday.

To Mr. O'Hagan I owe my appreciation for the very fair and courteous manner in which he conducted his campaign. Throughout the contest he proved himself to be a generous opponent and I am led to hope that I may have the benefit of his advice in the forthcoming year.

To the successful candidates for the other positions I offer my congratulations and best wishes for success during their term of office.

I hope that I may rely on the continued support of the undergraduates and it shall be my endeavour to serve their interests impartially at all times.

Very truly yours,
 BASIL C. MACLEAN.

ECONOMICS CLUB FINAL MEETING

Subject: "Canadian Banking System: Defects and Remedies."

The last regular meeting of the Political Economy Club for this session will be held tonight at eight-fifteen in the Smoking Room of the Arts Building. Two papers will be read by F. M. Reid and G. W. McDonald on "The Canadian Banking System: Defects and Remedies." Both these men are honour students in Economics and are well qualified to discuss this subject.

One paper will give a general outline of present day conditions, and the other will go into more detail, giving particular instances and suggested solutions for the difficulties in which many banks find themselves today.

Following the reading of the papers there will be an open discussion when members will be able to express their views on the subject. It is hoped that many of those present will take part in this discussion. All students interested are cordially invited to attend.

At the conclusion of the meeting, refreshments will be provided through the kindness of Dr. Leacock.

Japanese panels, and along two sides there is a gold canopy over the seats, with a curtain of narrow purple strips in front. The Lounge room and landing are draped with green for the main part, with a canopy effect of dull gold over the window seats. The side lights along the wall are covered with dull gold also. In addition to these main decorations, there are many smaller ones, all helping to lend a distinctive touch to the whole scheme, such as has never before been attempted. The numerous favors, such as fans, cigarette cases, a new type of sparkers for the "moonlights" incense burners, etc., are in a class by themselves. The artistic interior decorators are working night and day to complete the work. There are still a few tickets for the dance available, on sale at the Tucke Shoppe, but these will be disposed of almost immediately.

McGILL JUNIORS WIN CITY LEAGUE HOCKEY CHAMPIONSHIP

McGill Outplays M.A.A.A. Juniors on Slow Ice—McGill Defence Work Outstanding—Large Number of Penalties—Johnson Plays Stellar Game in the Nets—Total Score Was 2-0.

The McGill Juniors last night, at the Mount Royal Arena, not only maintained their one point lead which they gained from M.A.A.A. last Monday, but also succeeded in chalk-ing up one more goal for themselves, thus gaining the championship of the Junior City League. Despite the condition of the ice, which was more-ly slush in spots, the game was quite fast, never lacking in excitement. The crowd was kept on its feet the entire evening. The ice, indeed, was so bad that it took the "four horse-men" more than half an hour to scrape the surplus slush away which remained from the previous game.

During the last period many penalti-ties were handed out, M.A.A.A. suf-fering heavily, so much so that they had one man in the box nearly all the time, and two on several occasions. Roncarelli and McGerrigle played a stellar game on the defence, while Johnson protected his goal in an ex-celent manner. The forward line played together in excellent fashion, while Mickles was outstanding. M. A. A. A. substituted freely during the whole game. Coach Shaughnessy's regulars each played the full time.

1st Period.
The play started rather slowly, and for a while was all up at the M. A. A. A. nets. Abbott and Mickles both took shots, but missed, and for sev-eral minutes the Blue and Red goalie was kept exceedingly busy, but he managed to keep his nets empty, and the puck was kept at the McGill end owing to M.A.A.A. resorting to shooting from the defence line. These shots, however, failed to pass the Mc-Gill defence, who showed great agili-ty in stopping the puck with their hands, and the few that they missed were ably handled by Johnson.

As ragging was found to be abso-lutely impossible, the players resort-ed to long shots, which were very risky for the goalies, as the uneven-ness of the surface made the direc-tion of the puck very uncertain. Mc-Gerrigle and Roncarelli were very expert at this, but one of the lat-ter's unfortunately hit the M. A. A. A. wing, Walker, in the face, but he was soon able to return to the slush.

2nd Period.
The second period commenced with fast hockey, and M.A.A.A. nearly scored in a scrimmage round the nets, but Johnson was able to keep the opponents at bay. The Winged-Wheelers made a fine man rush, but

THE REDUCED RATES SEEM VERY POPULAR

Students in all Years Will Attend the Revue

"FOOLISH VIRGINS"

Medicine Will Present Songs by Willard Crocker

Reduced rate tickets are going like hot cakes; some classes have already exceeded their quota. From all in-dications practically the whole col-lege will witness the Revue, the only classes which seem at all backward in purchasing their exchange placards are the freshman years. Saturday is the last day that reduced rates are being offered. Elsewhere in these col-umns there is a reference to "Foolish Virgins"; it would be advisable to read and take heed.

Ticket managers and the box-of-fice are being besieged by request from people outside the university for seats. Until Saturday the pre-ference is being given to students. On Monday, the Union and the St. Denis wickets open for business. Exchange tickets may then be turned in in re-turn for regular theatre tickets. There will be an equal number of the best seats for sale at both offices; these will be given to the first comers whether they possess an exchange ticket, or wish to purchase seats at the regular prices.

Commerce yesterday held another rehearsal in an endeavour to perfect their rendering of the great drama-tics. Arts have continued to hold their rehearsals behind closed doors. However it has been heard through the medium of the man at the keyhole that they are preparing to present on the great night a mystery play that bids fair to rival "The Bat."

One of the attractions of the Med-ical school will be a song by Willard Crocker, also some other very origi-nal music, not to mention a startling exposure of the drug traffic. After the unfortunate incident connected with the attempt of reporters to gain news from R. V. C. nobody has been brave enough to approach the hon-ourables in their den, M. S. P. E. are nowhere.

THEOLOGICAL SOC'Y OFFICERS ELECTED

Annual Meeting Held in the Union Grill Room

The Theological Undergraduate So-ciety held its annual meeting last night in the Grill Room of the Union. Reports were presented by the various officers concerning the activities of the session, and suggestions were made for the new session's activities. Election of officers for the session 1924-25 resulted as follows:
President, R. H. Moore, Congrega-tional College.
Vice-President, H. R. C. Avison, Presbyterian College.
Secretary, N. Egerton, Anglican College.
Treasurer, S. J. Milley, Wesleyan.
A hearty vote of thanks was accorded the retiring executives for their loyal services during the session.

DEAN LORD OF BOSTON CONDEMNS BEAUTY AID

Dean Lord, of Boston University voices a popular opinion when he condemns the lip-stick and rouge-jar as being enemies of beauty, be-cause they attempt to present some-thing that is not true. He says:—"Beauty is a matter of letting the truth shine out," he continued. "I never saw a healthy woman who was not beautiful. It may be possible that some of the girls in the back of this room are not beautiful, for I admit I am near-sighted, but you all look beautiful to me. This is not flattery. Woman is the source of beauty. She should have many beau-tiful pictures and works of art in the home, for the average man does not know enough to bother about it."

ARTS WINS INDOOR BALL CHAMPIONSHIP

Medicine Goes Down to Defeat

SCORE 10-4

Bronson and Abramovitch Made Strong Battery

Yesterday afternoon the Arts team won the Interfaculty Indoor Base-ball championship, by virtue of their win from the Medical nine. The final score was ten runs to four, and the score is almost an indication of the play.

In the first innings the winners scored three runs, to the single one registered by their opponents. At the end of the following inning the score was raised to 6-3 in favour of the classic students. Pitcher Philpott and his men staged a rally in the third inning, and kept Arts scoreless. How-ever, when they picked up their bats, Bronson and Abramovitch, the strong Arts battery, mowed them down, after one man crossed the plate. He was the last man to score for the losers, whereas four more men who were reg-istered in Arts, chalked up runs, two of which came in the fourth, and two in the last inning.

The fact that this game was won by Arts, saves a three cornered tie with Commerce and the Meds. As it is now, Arts are the undisputed in-terfaculty champions, and will receive plain numerals.

The game as played before a small crowd, in the Montreal High School gymnasium, and was well handled by Umpire Chamberlain, of Commerce. The teams were as follows:

Johnson	Abramovitch
Defence	Pitcher.

McGILL WHITES LOSE TO U. OF M.

Montreal Infield Work is Es-pecially Good

The University of Montreal men won their first indoor baseball vic-tory of the season on Tuesday, when they overcame the McGill Whites by a score of 21 to 12.

The game was played in the Mon-treal High School gym., and the U. of M. team showed a very fine spirit throughout the game, and their in-field work was of a noticeably high order.

This is the first year that the Uni-versity of Montreal has entered a team in the C.P.Y. Indoor Baseball League, and the spirit which they showed in their first victory of the year, as well as the baseball which they played, was worthy of much commendation.

The McGill team was somewhat weakened by a lack of men, as is shown in the lineup, as follows:

Fuhrmann	Milne

IF WINTER COMES

The student with an 8-o'clock class no longer dresses in the semi-dark-ness on those occasions when he goes to school at this early hour. The sun, which formerly had a habit of hiding behind dark clouds, peeps forth quite frequently, although not nearly so often as we would desire.

Topcoats are replacing heavy uls-ters and gabardines are worn instead of sheepskins. Wool sox are com-mencing to fly. The earth is losing its stony hardness and is taking on that soft, oozy character that even further reduces students' pocketbooks as it provides additional small change for bootblacks.

BASKETBALL CLUB FINISH SEASON WELL

Much Improved State of Finances

MEETING YESTERDAY

Hilton Elected Manager - Pre-sentations to Van Wag-ner and Hayes

New officers were elected and the year's work commented upon when the Basketball Club held its final meeting yesterday evening. The good financial position of the Club was especially emphasized, the deficit, usually large, being really reduced.

All teams had a very strenuous season, the Seniors' work of all. The latter travelled 3,200 miles, and their route included nearly all the Eastern Universities.

The meeting opened with the read-ing of the minutes and a resume of the year's work of all the teams. The financial position of the teams was next discussed. Then began the business of electing officers for the coming year. Three men, George Hil-ton, of the Seniors, Muir, of the In-termediate "A", and Hamilton of In-termediate "B", stood for Manager. Hilton was elected.

Manson was elected Intercollegiate representative unanimously, upon Turple's motion and Mendelsohn's se-conding. Errol Amaron, proposed by Manson and seconded by Granik, was elected unanimously Honorary Pres-ident.

Captain Mendelsohn made a presen-tation to Coach Van Wagner on behalf of the members of the Senior team. Manager, Hayes was also made the recipient of a handsome pipe by members of the team, in token of their esteem for him.

R.V.C. WILL HEAR MISS RUTHERFORD

S. C. A. Secretary Will Also Speak at Friday's Luncheon

The last meeting this term of the S. C. A. of R.V.C. will be held this afternoon at four o'clock, in the Com-mon Room.

Miss Rutherford, National Secretary of the S.C.M. of Canada, who has recently returned from visiting the Universities of the West, will speak briefly on "The Student Movement in Canadian Colleges." The meeting will then be thrown open for discussion of questions of interest to the students. A luncheon is being arranged for Friday at 12.30 in Strathecona Hall. Miss Rutherford will tell of summer conferences in Canada and else-where. All the girls who can attend will please sign the list on the S.C. A. notice board in R. V. C. or in the Arts Building. It is hoped that many will take advantage of this oppor-tunity of hearing Miss Rutherford, who is speaking on a very interest-ing and vital topic.

FINAL YEAR IN ARTS WILL HOLD DINNER

Arrangements have been made by the Arts '24 executive to hold a class dinner at Keshuh and Odian's, St. Denis Street, on Saturday evening, March 29th, prior to the second per-formance of the "Red and White Re-vue" at the St. Denis Theatre. Ex-tensive preparations are being made to make this the last appearance of the class en masse before graduation, the most enjoyable event in the an-nals of Arts '24. A private dining room has been secured and the man-agement of the pullserie assure a tasty repast of excellent French cook-ing at a moderate price. The room will be appropriately decorated in the university colours. The dinner will be quite informal and there will be no set programme.

In order that the members of the class proceed in a body to the theatre the executive have reserved a bloc of seats. Part of the money towards the dinner and theatre party will be used from the class funds, and the balance must be handed over to class representatives this week. Members of the class are asked to pay the sum of $1.60 each to one of the following men: L. C. Tombs, L. Sessenwein, A. R. Stone and A. M. Vinberg, the latter for B.Sc. students. This will be the total assessment for both dinner and theatre party, which is very considerably below the cost for such entertainment. It is hoped that there will be at least thirty five men at the Arts '24 dinner and theatre party.

CONVOCATION ADDRESS BY PROF. JACKS

Principal of Manchester Col-lege, Oxford

IN MAY

Dr. Jacks, Noted as Scholar Writer and Theologian

As a result of a telegram received at the Principal's office yesterday it has been definitely announced that the address at the coming McGill Convocation in May will be delivered by the Rev. Lawrence Pearson Jacks M.A., L.L.D., D. Litt., D.D., Prin-cipal of Manchester College, Ox-ford, and Editor of the Hilbert Jour-nal.

McGill is fortunate in having Dr. Jacks as speaker, and it was only af-ter considerable effort on the part of the authorities that he was secured.

Dr. Jacks has made himself famous as a scholar, critic, and theologian all over the world. In 1903 he was made Professor of Philosophy in Manchester College, Oxford, and in 1915 was appointed Principal of that college, both of which positions he has held ever since. Since the founda-tion of the Hilbert Journal in 1902 Dr. Jacks has been editor of that publication, and has written exten-sively in that as well as in several other British and American reviews.

Born in Nottingham in 1860, he re-ceived his early education at the Uni-versity School in that place. Later he went to the University of Lon-don, where he graduated with the degree of M.A. in 1886. Pursuing his studies he spent some time at Manchester College, at Gottingen, and at Harvard. He received an Hono-rary M.A. degree at Oxford, Hon. L.L.D. at Glasgow, and Honorary D.D. at Harvard.

In 1887 Dr. Jacks entered the min-istry as assistant to Rev. Stopford Brooke, the famous critic, whose daughter he married two years later. Subsequently he was pastor of Reu-shan Street Chapel, Liverpool, and the Church of the Messiah, Birming-ham.

Besides his articles in the Hilbert Journal Dr. Jacks has written sev-eral books on theological subjects, and some biographical work. He has also earned considerable reputation as a writer of stories. His stories are all of the parable type, the moral side being emphasized. At present he is working on another set which is expected to appear shortly.

Junior: "Why there's Mahel, I thought she graduated last June."
Senior: "She did."
Junior: "Oh, maybe she's trying for an M.A."
Senior: "Nope. She's trying for a M.A.N."—The Cornelian.

McGILL'S ATHLETIC RECORD

There are several athletic com-petitions which McGill enters at present which attract contestants from universities and colleges other than that triumvirate usually called to mind when "Intercollegiate" ac-tivities are mentioned—Toronto, Queen's and McGill. By no means are the representatives of these other colleges to be considered slightlying, as they have fought valiantly and displayed courage and stamina in gruelling encounters—not to mention the victories they have won. The Royal Military Col-lege has been the training ground for some of McGill's best athletes and time and again has administered de-feat to the Junior and Intermediate teams of this university.

TENNIS

Fourteen years ago last fall the first intercollegiate tennis meet was held, and the Royal Military College returned victor. During those first few years, the competition between the colleges for tennis honours must have been keen, as the championship changed hands annually. The R.M.C. men distinguished themselves a sec-ond time in 1911 by repeating their victory of two years previous, and then in 1912 Toronto made her play felt with such effect that the Blue and White racquet-wielders can victory crown their efforts. Seven years later, after the war intermission, To-ronto again won. Since then Mc-Gill has cleaned up on the tennis matches with such regularity, that the singles' final more than once has seen two McGill men compet-ing.

Tennis at McGill has flourished these past four years. Particularly last summer, and the one before the McTavish street courts have been the scene of action for some of the most brilliant tennis players in Cana-da. Almost any afternoon in Octo-ber a spectator would have the plea-sure of watching the game of a Davis Cup player, of an Intercollegi-ate champion, a Canadian champion, men who are known as outstanding in tennis circles. Due particularly to the Davis Cup matches played in Montreal, in August, tennis attained great publicity, and as an outgrowth of that, well-deserved popularity. That was reflected at McGill, but McGill had also a very personal in-terest in tennis. Willard Crocker was Canadian Singles Champion in 1922, and with Jack Wright, was Canadian Doubles Champion in 1922 and 1923. These two McGill men were on Canadas 1923 Davis Cup team. Then in the Intercollegiate series in Toronto Jack Wright and Dave Morrice swept all before them, and in the singles final Dave Morrice defeated the Dav's Cup man, Charlie Leslie, a freshman in Arts, brought with him the Canadian Junior Singles title. With these men in college for some years to come, the old university should be able to re-tain a very strong hold on the tennis title in the intercollegiate series. The results of the matches have award-ed the championship as follows:

1909—R. M. C.
1910—McGill.
1911—R. M. C.
1912—Toronto.
1913—McGill.
1914—McGill.
1915—War years.
1916—War years.
1917—War years.
1918—War years.
1919—Toronto.
1920—McGill.
1921—McGill.
1922—McGill.
1923—McGill.

Totals:— Toronto, 2; R.M.C., 2; Queens, 0; McGill, 7.

Q-U-I-P-S

EDITED BY THE DAILY DRAGON

This morning we woke to a world of sunshine and running water and the buoyant feeling that comes to us in the spring. We hopped skipped and jumped down to lectures and spent our hour in the peaceful perusal of the "Daily." Everything seemed in harmony with our spirit. The orgy of the speech-making by the candidates was no longer to be feared. We had successfully escaped from the candidate who was giving away peanuts to his supporters, and the ticket for the Alma Mater reposing in our inside pocket gave a feeling of definite satisfaction, in spite of the fact that they are not paid for. As we were saying, we were feeling exceptionally blissful when one of those people who are full of ideas about everything suddenly asked us if we had provided ourselves with a costume suitable for the Alma Mater. Was it Hawaiian or Chinese? Sizzling Puppies! We hadn't even thought of it before. Under such circumstances the only thing to do was to start thinking about it and then to worry. A Hawaiian costume certainly required grass and where could grass be obtained at this time of the year? In fact a very multitude of ideas occurred to us. How long is the ordinary Hawaiian costume? (we certainly would not like to appear too conspicuous). How would the Montreal climate affect us? What would we have to leave in the cloak-room and how much? And a whole lot of other things. We haven't as yet been able to get any information on the matter but we are hoping for something definite sometime today. We are rapidly swinging toward the Chinese stuff feeling that silk would be a great deal finer than grass.

It is not often that the Circle is able to secure a man of such repute and it is expected that all members as well as any other students who are interested will take advantage of this exceptional opportunity.

The subject for discussion will be "The Connection of the Jews with Revolutionary Movements." The Jews have always been of particular interest to the student of sociology because they are found concentrated at both ends of the scale, at the zenith and nadir, as it were, of the social universe. One school of thought has tried to prove that the Jews are the real founders of capitalism, notable among these is Werner Sombart, the famous author of "The Jews and Modern Capitalism." On the other hand, there are those who maintain that they have been the instigators of all important revolutionary movements. Both these viewpoints are, of course, exaggerated, but a frank discussion of the actual connection of the Jews with revolutionary movements should be conducive both towards imparting useful information and clarifying or correcting popular beliefs and misconceptions.

WHO SAID THIS?

Prof: (When bidding farewell to class before Christmas)

"I hope that you will have a Merry Christmas, a Happy New Year, and that you will come back to college with more brains than you have now."

Voice from back of room: "Same to you, sir!"

EXTEMPORE ORATORY AT THE UNION

Many Men Have Entered Impromptu Speaking Contest

FIVE MINUTE SPEECHES

Competitors Will be Given Five Minutes to Prepare

This evening at 8 p.m. the Union Reading Room will be the scene of an impromptu speaking competition. This contest is being held under the auspices of the Literary and Debating Society. About twenty men are taking part. The speeches will be very short—a maximum of five minutes being allowed for each speaker.

Speeches will have to be entirely extempore, as the candidates will not know until within five minutes of their time for appearance, what subject they are to talk about. It will be arranged as follows:—the twenty debate resolutions on various topics of the day—given below—will be written upon slips of paper, placed in a box and shuffled. Just before his time for orating, each competitor will draw a sheet on which is written the subject on which he will be required to speak. A great advantage to him will be the fact that he will be able to choose which side of the question he wishes to uphold.

B. C. MacLEAN,

President of the Students' Council.

The best orator of the evening will receive the handsome "Talbot Papineau Cup."

An encouraging fact in the competition is that many new men are showing very good talent. J. M. Duckworth, president of Arts '27, and L. Edel, of the same year are among these more experienced men such as D. Livingston, now in Theology, T. G. Glasco, and A. G. Nairn will offer these stiff competition.

Howard O'Hagan, president of the Literary and Debating Society will occupy the chair.

The following will be the judges:—Colonel George Currie, a prominent Montreal business man, Arthur Jermou, a graduate in Law, Dr. Stanley Weir from the Peoples' Forum, and Bert Wells, of the Faculty of Law. Sir Arthur Currie will probably be present.

Those competing are:—Aderson, F. P.; James, A. N.; Kaufman, M. R.; Boomhour, H.; Brownstein, C.; Silverstone, H. L.; Duckworth, J. M.; Schleifer, R.; Nairn, A. G.; Spector, J.; Edel, L.; Swischberg, S.; Freedman, H.; Joseph, P.; McLeod, E.; Anderson, D. R.; Livingston, D.; Woolcombe, G.; Cousens, H.; Glasco, T. G.

The following are the resolutions, which each of the candidates will draw for:—

Candidates will either take the affirmative or negative upon the following as noted by their slips of paper:

1. Resolved that required attendance at lectures is in the best interests of the students.
2. Resolved that there should be a means of easier divorce in Canada.
3. Resolved that the Canadian National Railroads should be retained by the Dominion Government.
4. Resolved that Canada at the present time is justified in endeavouring to increase the number of immigrants into this country.
5. Resolved that Canada would prosper, as a whole, upon Reciprocal free-trade basis with the United States.
6. Resolved that there should be compulsory school attendance up till the age of sixteen.
7. Resolved that the state should control primary and secondary education.
8. Resolved that a system of co-education is generally beneficial.
9. Resolved that corporal punishment is in the best interest of the community.
10. Resolved that English should be the accepted language in all Canadian schools.
11. Resolved that compulsory physical attendance is beneficial to the student.
12. Resolved that disarmament is impracticable under present world conditions.

R.V.C. TO GIVE A GYMNASTIC DEMONSTRATION

In Convocation Hall on March 21st and 22nd

PROGRAM ANNOUNCED

Will consist of Gymnastics, Apparatus Work and Dancing

The R. V. C. Gym. Demonstration which is taking place in the R. V. C. Convocation Hall on Friday, March 21st, and Saturday, March 22nd, promises to be one of the most interesting ever presented by the R. V. C. undergraduates. The "Dem" for the past few years has been an annual affair with the exception of last year, when, owing to the fact that the Women's Intercollegiate Basketball Meet took place in Montreal, it was omitted from the programme of the Undergraduate Society. Arrangements for an exhibition this session, however, are nearly complete, and the R. V. C. students are concentrating on making this one a success. The tickets have been on sale for the past week, at the price of 75c, and $1.10, tax included, and the proceeds will go to the University Settlement and to Intercollegiate Athletics.

The programme for the demonstration is practically settled now and promises to be very varied and entertaining. The evening's performance will be opened with a "Daily Dozen," a series of exercises decidedly energetic, and accomplished in a remarkably short space of time. This item will be followed by some Indian Club Swinging and Wand Drill, and later by some formal gymnastics and apparatus work. A Class Relay will also be run off.

The second half of the programme will consist chiefly of dancing. There are two or three folk dances, a Greek dance, another, featuring Pierrot and Pierrot, as well as some interpretative work. Great care has been taken in the drawing up of this list so that the many tastes of the audience will be appealed to.

The following is the entire programme as at present posted on the R. V. C. notice-board:

- Part I
- 1.—"A new Daily Dozen" (informal).
 - 2.—Indian Club Exercises.
 - 3.—Formal Gymnastics.
 - 4.—Apparatus.

N. W. PHILPOTT,

Vice-President of the Union

The stranger was asking a lot of questions concerning the village, and the oldest inhabitant was doing his best to answer them.

"And how about the water supply? What precautions do you take against infection?"

"Well, first of all we boils it, zur."

"Ah! then we filters it."

"Ah! then, zur, we drinks beer!"

CHRISTIANITY AND ISLAM DISCUSSION

Lloyd and Tennant Present Excellent Papers

HISTORICAL CLUB

Subjects Caused Liveliest Arguments of the Session

One of the most successful meetings of the Historical Club was held last night at the residence of W. G. Shepherd, Edgemoor Road, when papers on two world religions were delivered. The first subject, "Christianity Present-Day Tendencies," was thoughtfully and cleverly discussed by A. O. Lloyd, of Arts '25, while the second, "Islam, Past, Present and Future," was equally praiseworthy, although couched in a lighter view.

Lloyd commenced by stating that Christianity, a belief and a practice, will change as men's thoughts of God change. This has always been the case. At the Reformation, the Bible displaced the Pope, Copernicus dispelled the Biblical theory that the earth was the centre of the universe, while Newton proved that gravity, not God, caused the apple to fall. These discoveries gave the Christians a shock that took every word of the Bible literally a rude shock.

"TED" NEWTON,

President of the Union.

Men gradually came to see that the Bible was not a revelation from God, but of God, and that it had to be interpreted with regard to the times of which it told. Science did not detract from God's glory; on the contrary, it explained his methods. And the old idea that the way to Heaven was found by repeating formulas and by punishing the body, was disappearing. Modern thinkers leave piety of this sort to the ancients.

Some of the more modern tendencies are spiritualism and Fundamentalism. The first is generally unpopular because of difficulty in believing certain phases, such as their methods of communications and their materialistic world pictured by enthusiasts. Fundamentalism, said the speaker, is an attempt to tie religion down to pages of the Bible and to make it static.

"The tendency of modern Christianity is to apply scientific and historical methods or study to the Bible and to religion. It seeks an outlet for its spirits in a social interpretation and application of the principles of Jesus and finally offers as a test of discipleship the Lordship of Jesus in life." With these words, Lloyd concluded his speech, being followed by Tennant.

The next speaker when discussing the history of Islam, caused much laughter when he described Mohammed's campaign against polygamy. The prophet made a reputation as a reformer by limiting one man's wives to four. The early history of Mohammed was quickly reviewed, the story of the Hegira in A.D. 622, and the subsequent life of the founder of Islam being told in greater detail.

The military valour of the converts with native tribes and Christian knights; the capture of Constantinople being of their greatest achievements. At one time, the true believers were even overrunning France, until conquered by Charles Martel at Tours. Conflicts between various sects, such as the sunites and Shites, which quarreled over the election of Ali in 656, marred the military glory.

The religion itself was then roughly described by Tennant. The sacred book, Koran, is composed of the "Revelations of God" to Mohammed, and the latter's famous saying: "I forbid the use of wine, musical instruments, and the painting and other objects likely to demoralize the believer." But in modern times, many sects are relaxing these rules to a certain extent. The ancient prophets, amongst whom are numbered Moses, Noah and Christ, are recognized as such.

The speaker went on to say "Great changes have occurred in recent years, and are occurring now in the religious and social life of Mohammedans. Enlightened Moslems now see that it

CANDIDATES' HERALDIC BEARINGS ON CAMPUS

The bustle of activity that is always present when the fates of an election are balancing one another in the scales and which started some days ago, reached its peak at noon hour yesterday. At that time the main lobby of the Union was crowded to overflowing and the scrutineers in the balloting room were given no rest.

To little gatherings of attentive listeners many were holding forth on the merits of the men they had chosen for the various positions. When the groups broke up, some went away with new convictions, while others bore that hard determined look which showed clearly that their original decisions had not been altered.

Armed with posters and thumb-tacks, one busy man was seen hurrying about in the vicinity of the campus early yesterday morning, seeking points of vantage upon which to place his enticing invitations to vote for a certain gentleman for president of the Union. When his work was done it looked as though a band of sign painters had spent the whole morning at the job.

Food was digested to the music of election talk. Names and arguments carefully interspersed Pierre's lake-trout made the Union Cafeteria sound like a Chinese school in the process of a recitation. The sombre buff walls of the Arts Building, which for the past few days have been emblazoned with heraldic bearing and invocations to electorate to do their duty, presented a very colorful appearance. At about one o'clock there appeared in the Ancient Structure a man armed with a large camera. He had come to take a picture of the outward signs of McGill's political furor. The job took him well over half an hour. There were others besides he, who were interested in what the bulletins said and he found it difficult to get a clear field for his purpose. That the august professoriate was interested, was made evident on more than one occasion. A group of three was heard outside the faculty room at a late hour yesterday afternoon discussing the question, "When will the results be made known?" asked the first, "At six," answered the second; "I shall be here," added the third. The blotted campaign proved very popular. It was generally felt that the men doing their campaigning in this way were at the same time doing a great public service and filling a crying public want. "They are giving out free blotters this year, next year we shall have free beverages," was one gentleman's optimistic remark.

The reliable dividers were there. They were divided into two distinct camps; the diagnosticians and the prognosticians. The first deemed it their sacred duty to tell all within shouting distance just who was going to vote for whom and why. The other faction felt firmly that they knew just who was going to be elected and why. It was reported at a late hour last night that a number of the second faction was seen transferring money to some of their fellows. It is said by some that they were settling bets. This is not official.

Towards evening the seething waters cooled down, but just after six o'clock the kettle boiled over once again. Looks of earnest anxiety were noticed by even the most casual observers on the faces of those who had posted themselves close to where the votes were being counted. The shuffling of feet and the shifting of ground were further evidences of the nervous interest felt by all.

Who the man with the camera is, or where, or when his picture will appear is not yet known.

ERECT MEMORIAL TO MCGILL GRAD.

Late Miss Margaret Craig, Missionary and Educationalist

A memorial will be erected to the memory of the late Miss Margaret Craig, B.A., a graduate of McGill, by the Woman's Missionary Society of the Methodist Church in Canada.

Miss Craig spent fifteen years in the mission field in Japan, a credit to her Alma Mater. For nine of these long years she was principal of the Ayabu School, Tokyo, until ill-health obliged her to return home.

The school has nearly five hundred students with no room in which all can meet together for morning prayers, concerts or community activities. The Missionary Society is therefore raising a fund to erect an Assembly Hall to bear her name as a fitting memorial of this eminent and sacrificing educationalist.

All who wish to share in this Memorial in honour of a fellow graduate may send their contributions to Miss Ruth Goodwin, 614 Victoria Ave., Westmount.

JACK WRIGHT,

Secretary of the Union

is practically impossible to build up a progressive civilization if its doctrines of the Koran are taken too literally. Many Mohammedans see that Western ideas and customs are preferable to their own, and are adopting them, with the aid of British and French advisers. The Christian missionaries have had little success in converting the Moslems, and are now paying more attention to social work than to the changing of faiths.

After drawing attention to the present political situation, Tennant turned to Islam in its future. The Mohammedans are increasing, especially in Asia by leaps and bounds, being secured in this respect only to Christianity. The European countries connected with Mohammedans are often anxious to help the more backward nations to improve their position, but as these proffers of aid are seldom accepted, little progress is being made. The meeting concluded with resolutions and the most spirited discussion of the year.

THE THREE NUTS

The Three Nuts have suddenly wakened to the realization that they are in imminent peril, not only they but also all poor inoffensive males who are at present sojourning around the university.

It is Leap Year. The co-eds are active. They promenade up and down the avenue with a bold, determined stride. They advance upon their wretched victims with jaws clenched. In their eyes shine the light of a great purpose. Poor men; unfortunate creatures, doomed to months of constant fear and trepidation, of anxious days, of sleepless nights—pitiable existence.

The Three Nuts received a letter letter which bodes ill for some one.

Dear Nuts: (It runs) I am not writing to ask your advice. I don't need it. I am simply stating my purpose.

Long years have I waited, but I have never yet asked him. In 1916, I was too diffident; in 1920 I let another chance pass. But now—ah now he shall not escape me. I have waited too long; I have exhausted every college course open to me; I have wooed him with languishing eyes and velvety touch without success. Now my opportunity has arrived. It is Leap Year. I shall propose.

THE IMPERIAL

If you have an extra watch that you want changed into an alarm clock to help make that early morning lecture take it to Gus Fowler at the Imperial this week. This clever entertainer holds his audiences spell-bound with the ease and skill with which he transforms clocks into watches and vice versa. The size of the time-piece makes no difference to Gus for he produces pocket chronometers from mantle time-recorders. Fisher and Gilmore appear again in their skit on proposals, much to the delight of the house. They have lost none of their charming qualities to please.

Two escaped inmates from an asylum, portrayed by Mack and Velmar, carry on an amusing patter of dialogue before being revealed in the role of lunatics.

Rango music of high finish and varied in melody carried out in cowboy setting by Montana ranks as one of the best of the acts.

Nathan and Sully put over a clever dance and song part. The man is especially light-footed and dances with a graceful abandon and ease.

Shannon and Leyland two musical girls present a high-class act of song and music.

"Maytime" the feature film shows life fifty years ago and now. The scenes are laid in the country to the south of us and the acting and scenic effects are very well carried out.
